PREFACE.

THE Publishers in presenting this edition of the OTTAWA DIRECTORY beg to state that every effort has been made to render it complete and reliable, and as the compilation was conducted under their immediate supervision, they flatter themselves that the work will compare favorably with any other of a similar character.

The great difficulty of compiling the directory of a city in which the houses are not numbered will be obvious to every person, and the compilers hope that their next year's edition will find this very necessary and much desired improvement provided.

The Publishers tender their thanks to their friends and patrons for their liberal support and assistance.

HISTORICAL SKETCH OF OTTAWA.

THE City of Ottawa, taking its name from the Ottawa or Grand River of Canada, on which it is situated, the Outaouis of the early French pioneers, lies about 120 miles above the Island of Montreal. The latter, some seventy-five years ago was the Ultima Thule of Canadian civilization, and save rarely by hunters or fur traders, the waters of the Ottawa were undisturbed by the white man; the birch bark canoe of the Indian was the only vessel that navigated its waters. Celebrated as this river is, especially the upper part of it, for its numberless and varied falls and rapids, amongst which the most striking and grand is that named by the early French pioneers the Chaudière, or as it is generally called, the "Big Kettle." For some miles above this there are numerous chutes or rapids, which indicate how great is the incline of the river, which narrowing at these falls to about four hundred yards is precipitated wildly over a bluff limestone rock, through a gap about 200 feet wide and 300 long, within which, as in a kettle, the waters foam and boil, surging in large yeasty masses back and forth from side to side, until, eventually, they escape in a mountain of foam, and directly expand into about a width of half a mile just below. The scenery below the heights on the south side, where the limestone rocks rise perpendicularly two or three hundred feet, covered with waving hemlocks and dark pines, the undulating banks on the north shore, the abrupt precipices on the south—is very beautiful, and only equalled, though in a different style, by the aspect of Quebec. Here the hunters or traders had in earlier days to pause, for it was impossible to attempt the navigation higher, and here they tramped out a portage on the northern shore, of eight miles in length, across which they carried their canoes, &c., to the quiet waters above the Chaudière and its rapids, to what is now, the Town of Aylmer.

About the close of the last century, a Mr. Wright, of Boston, who was either tired of his native town, his native State, or possessed of a desire of gain, wandering in search of "a location" came with his party to the portage of the Chaudière, and here he determined to settle. Land was cheap in those days, and Mr. Wright easily obtained a grant of large tracts of land upon both sides of the river from the Canadian Government.

With the aid of a couple of Indians he explored the land, and decided that that on the south side (the present city) was unfit for town or farm; that on the north side was pronounced better, and about a mile from the portage landing, close to the Chaudière Falls

Mr. Wright planted his village, and called it Hull. The site once determined, no time was lost by the sturdy pioneers in building their log huts and necessary buildings upon it.

Much privation and continuous toil are usually the lot of new settlements, and Hull or Wrightstown, as it was often called, was no exception to the rule. Its nearest market as well as settlement was Montreal; and although this might be easily reached, the current carrying the canoe easily down stream, yet the return trip required a long and a strong pull to get home again. Mr. Wright and his followers did not consign all the trees they felled in their clearings to the fire; they lumbered, and thus became, as well as farmers, dealers in pine, as are all the settlers on the Ottawa to this day. An impetus was thus given in this quarter to the timber trade of Canada, and each year immense rafts were floated down, through many dangers, to Quebec, in the spring, which were disposed of for necessaries required at the settlement. With the growth of trade, came an increase of immigration, and Hull soon became a "fixed fact." As before stated, though not appreciating the soil upon the southern shore, Mr. Wright secured a large extent of it, thinking that some day or other it might be useful; but he looked upon the village on the north side as being the only place which could ever be of importance as a town.

Hull steadily grew. The lumber trade was not now confined to the old pioneers. Voyageurs sent by Quebec merchants, French Canadians, English, Scotch and Irish, intent upon cutting pine, thronged up the Ottawa. The trees fell before the vigorous blows of the new-comers, who plied their axes right and left, and behind the town of Hull, untouched, uncared for, and almost unnoticed, towered up the southern hills in sullen dignity.

Cash was scarce in Hull, but there was any amount of credit; and Mr. Wright—or rather the Wrights, for by this time the family was grown up, paid the lumberers in either of three ways for their labor—"store pay," in goods, rum, or land. Three fourths of the laborers preferred the two first; the more prudent, one-fourth, took the latter. In the course of time Mr. Wright came to a settlement of accounts with a sober, steady workman, who had been for many years one of his ox-teamsters, and on so doing, it was found that two hundred dollars was due to this employee, one Mr. Sparks. Cash was out of the question, nor did the creditor expect it in payment. Land being offered in lieu of it, the question naturally was, where was it located, but on Mr. Wright's informing him that all the land around Hull was taken up, and offering him a tract across the river on the south side, this he refused with great indignation, and the settlement was postponed, Sparks, however, not willing to lose his wages altogether, crossed the river, examined the land, and found as he expected, plenty of rock, plenty of sand, and plenty of swamp. Higher up, however, he found a piece of soil near the upper rapids, which he thought he might make something of, so that after some hard bargaining, and the addition of a yoke of oxen "thrown in," he accepted as payment for his arrears, the site of the present city of Ottawa.

Years afterwards, the Canadian authorities wishing to find a channel in the interior of the country, for the conveyance of munitions of war to the Upper Lakes, as the St. Lawrence was too much exposed to the assaults of the Americans in event of war ever occurring, inaugurated the scheme of the Rideau Canal. One day, in the year 1823, Mr. Sparks, looking down from one of his high precipices, was astonished by seeing a crowd of engineers, soldiers and laborers advance towards the bluffs. The hills were taken possession of as the ordnance property of the British Crown. The Chief Engineer charged with the construction of the Rideau Canal and its attendant works, was Colonel By. The work went on fast, huts and labourers appeared in due proportion, as did shops and other necessary buildings, and these were built on either side the hills, and by way of joke, were called "Upper Town," and "Lower Town," names retained to the present day. In time as the straggling "towns" become more united by their buildings, they obtained a single designation, and in compliment to the Chief Engineer, were called "Bytown," not a very high sounding name, but one that gave hopes to Mr. Sparks, who owned all the land beyond the fall of the hills inward. A bridge was thrown across the Chaudière, connecting Hull or Wrightstown with Bytown, and as the latter slowly grew, the other remained stationary.

Years passed away, and still Bytown grew larger and more populous, and suddenly, in its prosperity, it became ashamed of its name, and by act of Parliament it was changed to that of the noble river which foamed and roared at its base. Money flowed in upon Mr. Sparks; he no longer himself guided the oxen obtained with his land; he sold lots; went into a successful business, and was presently said to be worth half a million of pounds sterling; his town "looking up," and Hull, the place of early promise, being dead.

In 1851, Ottawa had a population of 8,000. In 1861, it numbered 15,000, and now 1873, it may be estimated at 25,000. It is now the chief seat of the lumber trade, there being upwards of seventy firms engaged in cutting that article of commerce on the banks of the Ottawa River and its tributaries, and transporting it to Quebec and the United States. Railways connecting the city with the St. Lawrence at Prescott, and with Renfrew and the Upper Ottawa, and the canal connecting it with Lake Ontario at Kingston, greatly facilitate the means of transport. Till those means of communication were provided, all that was not required for local consumption was taken to Quebec. Of the population, a very large number are lumberers, French Canadians, or Irish. From the number of French caleche drivers, Canadian voyageurs, and priests, it has a less English look than the other towns of Ontario. From its situation it is one of the most healthy cities on the continent, but very bleak in winter.

In due course of time the question arose as to which of the towns of Canada should be the chosen site for the new Houses of Parliament. The claims of Quebec, Montreal, Kingston and Toronto, were each strongly urged, and it was at last determined to refer the decision to the Queen. Her Majesty quickly and definitely settled it. The long despised hills, it was decided, should sustain the Parliament buildings of United Canada. For the erection of these, the sum of £75,000 was voted by the Legislative Assembly, and a premium of $1000 offered for the best design not to exceed that amount; Fuller & Jones were the successful Architects, and although the design was considered by many as too costly, responsible contractors were found who tendered within the Government vote. Upon examination, however, it was found from the inequality of the ground, that immense excavations were necessary, which made in the solid rock added enormously to the original cost. The Government finding no provision for this work in the grant, and fearing it would cost a large portion of the original sum voted, stopped the works, and for a considerable time matters seemed at a dead lock. A commission of enquiry was appointed, fresh contracts were signed, and the present handsome structure was completed under the superintendence of Mr. Fuller.

In 1861, the Prince of Wales, on his visit to Canada and the United States, laid the corner stone with great ceremony, on which occasion the rejoicings partook of the nature of the place, the lumber arches, and lumberers, being a novelty to most of the visitors. Bullocks and sheep were roasted whole upon the Government grounds, and all comers were feasted. The Prince expressed himself well pleased with the locality chosen, and with the welcome afforded him, evincing as it did, the loyalty of the Canadian colonists to Her Gracious Majesty, whom, he, in his visit represented.

The following description of the Parliament and Departmental Buildings, the best that has been published, gives a very good idea of the structure and its details to those who have never seen them:—

“The Parliament Buildings stand on a high plateau of some 30 acres in area. The buildings form three sides of a quadrangular figure, and are widely detached. The Parliament or main building facing Wellington street; and the Departmental Buildings facing inwards to the square and forming the other two sides of the figure.

“The style of the Buildings is the Gothic of the 12th and 13th Centuries, with modification to suit the climate of Canada. The ornamental work and the dressing round the windows are of Ohio sandstone. The plain surface is faced with a cream-coloured sandstone of the Potsdam formation, obtained from Nepean, a few miles from Ottawa. The spandrils of the arches, and the spaces between the window-arches and the sills of the upper windows are filled up with a quaint description of stone-work, composed of stones of irregular size, shape and colour, very neatly set together. These with the Potsdam red sandstone employed in forming the arches over the windows, afford a pleasant variety of colour and effect, and contrast with the general masses of light coloured sandstone, of which the body of the work is composed.

“This Building, as you approach from Wellington street, presents a very imposing appearance. The central of the seven towers, which is very rich in design, projects its width from the front of the Building, and when completed, will be about 180 ft. high. The body of the building in front is forty feet high, above which rises the slanting roofs of slate, surmounted by lines of ornamental iron cresting. The building is 472 feet long; and the depth from the front of the main tower to the rear of the library is 570 feet, covering an area of 82,896 superficial feet. It stands at a distance of 600 feet from Wellington street, so that the quadrangle formed on three sides by the buildings and on the fourth by the street, is 700 feet from east to west, and 600 feet from north to south; thus affording a very spacious square. The ground upon which the buildings stand varies somewhat in elevation, that forming the site of the Parliament Building being highest. The basement floor of the buildings is assumed to be 160 feet above the ordinary summer level of the river, while that of the Eastern and Western blocks is 135 and 142 feet respectively. The increased elevation, however, improves very much the general effect of the buildings.

“The main entrance is through the principal tower, the spacious arches of which admit of a carriage way under them. The piers which support the tower are ornamented with pillars of polished Arnprior marble. Passing through it, we enter a large hall, paved with tiles, and also surrounded with marble pillars. Ascending and moving towards the left we come to the Chamber of Commons. The Room measures 82 by 45 feet, the ceiling being over 50 feet high, and formed of fine open work. The skylights above this intermediate ceiling, with the stained glass windows at the sides, throw a plentiful soft light over the whole place. The room is surrounded by large piers of a light greyish marble from Portage du Fort, surmounted just above the galleries by clusters of small pillars of the dark Arnprior; the arches supported by these pillars being again of the light colored marble. The galleries can accommodate about 1,000 persons. The Gallery for the Reporters is situated above the Speaker's chair.

“On the right of the main entrance, is the Senate Chamber, alike in every particular to that of the Commons. Along the corridors you see numerous Rooms for Committees, Clerks, Reading and Smoking.

“The library is situated in the rear of the Parliament Building, and the plan is of a polygon of sixteen sides, 90 feet in diameter; outside of the main room is an aisle of one story high, which is formed of a series of small retiring rooms, where persons desiring a few hours of uninterrupted study can secure it. A corridor connects the Library with the main building: this corridor the picture gallery. The floor of this building, as well as those of the Departmental Buildings, are made of concrete, perfectly fire-proof: an invention not long since adopted in Europe.

“The Eastern Block of the Departmental Buildings is of an irregular and picturesque shape. The west front, or that which faces the square, is 318 feet, and 353 feet on the south front or that which faces Wellington street, and covers an area of 41,840 superficial feet. In this building are found the Governor General’s Office, the Privy Council room, the Minister of Justice, the Minister of Militia, the Secretary of State, the Finance and Audit Offices, the Registrar, the Receiver General, the Secretary of State for the Provinces, the Customs and the Inland Revenue departments.

“The Western Block is similar in style to that of the Eastern block, but not quite so large and more regular in its construction, being 211 feet long, facing the square, and 277 feet on the south looking on Wellington street. It is also very imposing, although not possessing so grand an entrance as the Eastern Block, a circumstance which is probably accounted for by the fact of the Governor General and Privy Council’s rooms being situated in the first described Block. The Public Works Department, the Post Office Department, the Adjutant General and Militia Departments, the Marine and Fisheries Department, the Bureau of Agriculture, and the Model room connected with the Patent Department, are all located in this building. The west front of this building looking upon the upper town and beyond it towards the Chaudière Falls and Hull, gives a fine view of the wooded lands on the shore of the Ottawa River and the distant range of hills beyond, including a far view of the river and its banks stretching to the south-west in the direction of Aylmer. Similar or still more extensive views are obtained from the west side of the Parliament Building.

“The ceilings of the passages and of many of the rooms of the Parliament Buildings are made of pine wood, varnished, which, being wrought into ornamental cornices and panels, produces a rich and very fine appearance. The same material has been used for the doors. The fillings around the grates and mantle-pieces are of polished Arnprior mable; it is a greyish blue marble of very fine grain, and capable of being polished to a high degree. All the floors are supported by rolled iron girders, and filled in between with cement. The stairs in the building are all built of blue Ohio stone, and constructed with hanging steps.

“The system for heating and ventilating is on the most approved principle. Under the central court of the Parliament building is the boiler room, in which are six boilers, each twenty feet long and five feet in diameter, furnished with a steam drum, safety-valve, &c., and a steam engine of sufficient horse power to work the pumps and throw 250 gallons of water per minute into tanks placed in the towers, from whence the water is supplied to all parts of the building. The heating is effected by steam conveyed in pipes from these boilers to the Senate Chamber, the Library, and the rooms adjoining, by means of a duct sufficiently large for the introduction of an abundant supply of fresh air, situated immediately under a vault in which steam pipes are placed to warm the air on its entering the vault from the duct, through a perforated floor, and before it passes into rooms proposed to be heated. These ducts enter on all sides of the building, and range in size according to the position in which they are placed. Of the ducts, there are 3,600 lineal feet, generally of 2 feet 4 inches high, with sides built of dressed stone, and formed with slight descent where they pass out of the building. The other parts of the building are heated on what is called the coil system, or by direct radiation. For the rooms heated by this system there is an area of 4,309 feet of hot air flues, 24 by 19 inches sectional area, formed in the wall adjoining the committee rooms and other parts of the building heated, exclusive of ninety feet of others of greater dimensions for the larger steam pipes.

In the internal arrangement nothing seems to have been spared to make the buildings as perfect as possible. The wants of the Government and its officials have been most carefully studied by the architects, and the beauty of the situation, combined with the elegance of the buildings, enables the capital of Canada to compare with any in the world."

One of the most remarkable features in the history of Ottawa, and one which has tended materially to add to its commerce and wealth, is the work or works constructed to overcome the difficulties that lumbermen experience in passing their timber over the Chaudière Falls. To obviate the destruction and damage, which a considerable portion so passing annually underwent, a contrivance known as "Timber Slides," was invented by the late Ruggles Wright Esq., of this city. Above the Falls, a certain portion of the river is dammed off, and turned into an artificial wide channel or canal, down which most rapid of all rapids in America, the waters of the Ottawa rush with terrific speed. The head of this slide is placed some 300 yards above the Falls, and terminates after a run of about three quarters of a mile, in the still waters of the river below. As, however, a raft on such a steep incline and hurried along by such a mass of water, would attain a speed which would destroy itself and all upon it, the fall of the shoot is broken at intervals by straight runs, along which it glides at comparatively reduced speed, till it again drops over and commences another headlong rush. Some of these runs terminate with a perpendicular drop of some four or five feet, over which the raft goes headlong and wall-owes in the boiling water beneath, till the current regains the mastery and forces it on faster and more furiously than before. More than 40,000,000 cubic feet of timber come down the shoots of the Ottawa in this manner each year. The cribs are generally made of from 15 to 20 logs, with two transverse ones to secure them at each end, and a kind of raised bridge for the lumberers to stand on, who, without such aid would be washed off, as the mass drops from shoot to shoot, down these rapids and disappears some few feet under water each plunge.

To go down the rapids of a Timber Slide, is the most exhilarating adventure in all the repertoire of American travel. The immense speed of the whole mass—the rush of the water—the succession of shoots stretching out before you like sloping steps of stairs, the rough long straits in which the raft seems to dive and founder, letting the water up beneath and over behind, till it is again urged forward whirling madly as if in a swing, the timber snapping and groaning and working like a bundle of reeds, getting a momentary rest with each incline, and again thumping over the straits with sharp uneasy struggles, creates a sensation such as neither balloon nor diving bells afford, and such a whirl as only three quarters of a mile down the great timber shoots of the Ottawa can ever give. All persons desirous of novelty should by all means make one of these trips.

The future of Ottawa, if the mighty project of the Ontario Ship Canal is carried out, promises to be of great importance. Standing as she does on the great water highway to the West, with the commerce of the grain lands of the Saskatchewan and the products of the forest of the Ottawa valley, a mine of untold wealth in itself, brought to her very doors, with the collective wisdom of the Dominion assembled in her Legislative halls, with her Cabinet Ministers resident in the Capital, and a population contented and happy from the prosperity they enjoy under the freedom of the Red-cross of St. George, entwined with the Maple Leaf, no other young city ever had such a prospect of greatness thrust upon her.—Crescat eundo be her motto.

HULL.

The Chief town in the township of the same name, of the county and district of Ottawa, province of Quebec. It is the most important place in that Province, west of Montreal and is noted for its very extensive lumber trade. It possesses unrivalled water power, which is utilized by a number of mills and factories. Prominent among the latter are E. B. Eddy's large buildings, in which sashes, doors, blinds, mouldings, pails, tubs, zinc washboards and matches are manufactured. Other important manufacturing establishments are Wright, Batson & Currier's steam saw mills; Crandall & Co's saw mills; E. B. Eddy's saw mills; C. B. Wright's Cement and Lime manufactory; A. B. Baldwin's foundry; H. McCormicks flour mills, A. Bisson's carding and shingling mills, &c. The quantity of timber annually sawn here is immense. To enable the great quantity of timber that yearly descends the Ottawa, to pass from above to below the foaming waters of the Chaudière Falls, without being shattered by the rocks, a slide has been erected on this side of the river. This is much visited during the summer season by travellers and all who can avail themselves of a trip down it on a raft. From Hull, the Little Chaudière, where the waters find their way mysteriously under ground and cannot be traced, may be approached, and a fine view be had of the great fall. For some miles above this there are numerous rapids, which indicate how great is the incline of the River Ottawa, which narrowing at these falls to about four hundred yards is precipitated wildly over a bluff limestone rock, through a gap about two hundred feet wide and three hundred feet long, within which, as in a "kettle," the waters foam and boil, they surge in large masses back and forth from side to side, until eventually they escape in a mountain of foam, and directly expand into about a width of half a mile just below. The scenery below, on the south side where the rocks rise perpendicularly two hundred feet, is very beautiful and only equalled by the aspect of Quebec. The Parliament buildings at Ottawa, standing on a cliff one hundred and fifty feet above the level of Hull, present a very imposing appearance to a spectator at the latter place. This town is connected with the capital of the Dominion by a handsome Suspension Bridge, which spans the Ottawa river, immediately below the Chaudière Falls, and from which a magnificent view is to be had of this second Niagara. Montreal Telegraph Co., and People's Telegraph Co., have offices here. The Canada Central Railway has its terminus at Le Breton Flats, opposite Hull, and the cars of the Ottawa City Passenger Railway Co., run to the Suspension Bridge. Distant from Le Breton Flats $\frac{1}{2}$ mile, from Ottawa post office, 1 mile, from Aylmer, the county town, 8 miles, from Montreal by water, 130 miles, by rail, 167 miles. Several mails daily. Population 6000.

ALMONTE.

An important village and station of the Brockville and Ottawa Railway, on the Mississippi river, township of Ramsay, County Lanark, situated in the centre of an excellent farming country. The river affords almost unlimited power for manufacturing purposes, and several extensive woollen factories are located here, particularly those of the Rosamond Woollen Co.; Elliot, Routh & Sheard, and John Baird & Co. There are also foundries, cabinet factories, flour mills and other branches of industry which indicate a prosperity second to no other place in the Dominion of equal advantages and population.

The site of the Village was patented in the year 1820 to David Sheppard, a native of Dunkeld, Perthshire, Scotland, on condition of building grist and saw mills, which were completed soon after by John Shipman. The majority of the settlers of the surrounding country were immigrants from Renfrew and Ayrshire. The original name was Ramsayville, subsequently Sheppard's Falls, and on the establishment of the post office in 1856 it obtained its present name. In 1821 John Gemmell opened the first store, and in June, 1851, the "Ramsay Woollen and Cloth Manufacturing Company" erected mills, which were, however, destroyed by fire the next year, and the site was soon after occupied by the extensive stone premises of the Rosamond Woollen Company. Since that time the prosperity of the village has been steadily increasing.

Among the first settlers were John Lowrey, John Kilburn, Wm. and James Wallace, R. W. Wilkie, John Millions, James Metcalfe, Wm. Foster, James Wylie, Jno. Shaw, John Gemmell, Wm. Gilmour, James Leach and Robert McFarlane. The village was incorporated in 1870. Population about 2,500.

ARNPRIOR.

A LARGE and important village, and station of the Brockville and Ottawa Railway in the township of McNab, county Renfrew, near the confluence of the Ottawa and Madawaska rivers. Extensive woollen, flour and saw-mills are located here, and vast quantities of timber pass through the village annually on the way to Quebec.

The township of McNab was granted by the crown about the year 1822, to McNab of that ilk, and was soon after settled principally by Highland Scotch immigrants. In 1829, George and Andrew Buchanan built the first saw and grist mills in the neighborhood of the village. The former of these pioneers built the first slides on the south side of the Chaudière, Ottawa, at Fitzroy harbor and at Arnprior, as well as the first steamer on Shaw's lake. The plot of the village was surveyed in 1854, Daniel McLachlin possessing the greater part of the land, and extensive mill privilege in the vicinity, and settlement began the next year. A. Russell and J. Farley, opened the first stores. Among the early settlers were James Heavey, James Story, Thomas Landon, James Brown, John Tiernay, R. Carss, Hugh McGonigle, E. Edey, E. Harrington, Neil Robertson, and James Bell.

Distant from Sand Point 6, Ottawa 40, Perth 53, Brockville 70, and from Montreal, 166 miles.

CARLETON PLACE.

An incorporated village on the Mississippi river, township of Beckwith, County of Lanark. The Brockville and Ottawa, and the Canada Central Railways connect here.

The neighbourhood was settled in the year 1818, several years before Bytown was known except as "the Point," a landing place for emigrants, and the site of the Village belonged to the late Edmund Murphy and his sons. In 1820 Hugh Bolton built a grist mill, and shortly after stores were opened by Alex. Morris Caleb Baylis, J. P. Loucks, and Coleman. The place was first known as Murphy's Falls, which was changed to its present designation in commemoration of Carlton Place, Glasgow, Scotland. Among the early settlers were the Moore, McMullen, McRostie, Moffat, McLean, Hamilton, McGregor, McNeely, Baillie, McArthur and Willis families.

DISTANCES.—Almonte 6, Ennisville 9, Lanark 18, Perth 20, Playfairville 27, and Ottawa 28 miles. Population about 1800.

NEW EDINBURGH.

An incorporated village in the township of Gloucester and county of Carleton, at the confluence of Rideau and Ottawa rivers, adjoining the city of Ottawa. The Rideau river here is the boundary between Ottawa and New Edinburgh, and falls into the Ottawa over a limestone ledge, a perpendicular height of nearly 50 feet, forming a curtain, whence the name Rideau was derived. Rideau Hall, the residence of the Governor General, is within the incorporated limits. The McKay estate of over 1000 acres, the greater portion of which has been well preserved and laid out as a private park would form from the variety of soil and foliage, attractive seats for suburban residences. The Rideau Falls afford splendid water powers on which extensive saw, cloth, and flour mills are erected. The Street railway, which runs from here through Ottawa to Suspension Bridge, has its stables, depot and offices in this village. For electoral purposes it is in the county of Russell, for all others, in Carleton. Montreal Telegraph Company has an office here. Distant from Ottawa 1 mile. Mail daily. Population about 2,000

PEMBROKE.

The chief town of the County of Renfrew, situate on Allumette Lake, an extension of the Ottawa river. The site of the village was settled in 1828, the first tree having been cut on the 24th of May of that year. Among the early settlers were Col. Peter White, Alexander Moffatt, James Jardine, Michael McNeil, Isaac Jones, Andrew Irving, and the O'Meara and Dunlop families.

Pembroke, in a great degree, derives its prosperity from being the point of supply for the vast lumber regions of the Ottawa, and the large number of extensive mercantile and manufacturing establishments gives evidence of the prosperity of its inhabitants. Several elegant public and private buildings, prominent among which are the Court House and County Offices, built of freestone obtained from an island in the vicinity, present a very beautiful and chaste appearance. The Ottawa hotel built by Messrs. T. & W. Murray, at a cost of $50,000, including a music hall capable of seating a thousand persons, ranks as a first-class establishment and is a great acquisition to the town. The Muskrat river here empties into the Ottawa, affording excellent water privileges, which are utilized to a considerable extent. The scenery of the Ottawa above the town is celebrated for its extraordinary and varied beauty, and when the means of travel are more easily obtained will doubtless attract numbers of tourists. At the present time one of the Union Forwarding Company's steamers leaves Pembroke for Roch Captain, a distance of sixty-one miles, daily, and from Ottawa, via Aylmer and Muskrat lake and river every morning. Great expectations of increased prosperity are entertained when direct railway communication is obtained, and we sincerely hope they may be fully realized. Edward's line of stages leave Renfrew on the arrival of trains, daily, for Pembroke.

MUNICIPAL OFFICERS, 1873.—Peter White, reeve; Wm. Murray, W. R. Supple, Michael Hughes, William Moffatt, councilmen; Richard White, treasurer; John A. Wright, collector; Wm. Sparling, license inspector; D. H. Duffy, street constable; D. C. Chamberlain, assessor.

Distant from Ottawa 96 miles, Des Joachims 50, Portage du Fort, 32, Sand Point 48, and from Renfrew 40 miles. Population about 2500.

RENFREW.

An incorporated village in the township of Horton, county Renfrew, situated on the river Bonnèchere, and the present terminus of the Canada Central Railway. The surrounding country is rich in Agricultural essentials. The water power is ample and the progress of the village for the last few years indicates a prosperity not inferior to any other district of the Province.

The site of the village was first settled about the year 1826, by Thomas McLean, Henry Airth, Joseph Mahew, Joseph Brunet and Xavier Plaunt. In 1865, J. L. McDougall, erected a grist mill and opened the first store and about the same time John McRae, and John Logan, built flour and woollen mills, and Samuel Francis an axe factory.

Distant from Sand Point, 16 miles, Pembroke, 40 miles, Perth 57 miles and from Ottawa 58 miles. Population about 1300.

MUNICIPALITY 1873. J. L. McDougall reeve, John Smith, J. Carswell, A. Barnett, S. McDougall, Councilmen, Henry Bellerby, clerk, George Eady, treasurer.
