In the course of our making the Herbarium Index in the National Science Museum, Tokyo (TNS), all specimens belonging to three Orders, Plantaginales, Dipsacales and Campanulales were checked. More than 20,000 sheets of specimens are deposited. 100 genera could be listed and 1300 species were enumerated in our Herbarium Index issued in 2000. There are 48 sheets of which were recognized as a type specimen for 14 genera of three Orders. Fifteen five sheets are recognized as a holotype including two lectotypes and one neotype, and others are as an isotype, syntype or isosyntype.

There is a specimen "TNS-90293" which can be identified as f. angustifolia Hiyama by the original description. But, in the label of the specimen, there is no record of the sites which Hiyama collected the specimen and of the date when he collected it. Collector's name is not written by Hiyama himself. On the sheet of the specimen, there is a small slit of the old News Paper on which Japanese name "Hosoba-fukushima-shajin" was written. The News Paper has been issued on 16th August, 1934. In the original description, f. angustifolia is noted as a species uncommon. On the same site, three sheets of specimens which can be identified as f. divaricata were collected. One of them was collected by Hiyama on 19th August, 1934. Thus, the specimen "TNS-90293" can be identified as the holotype.
